Dear Lieutenant Hertz:

As you leave the Army and go back to your home, I wish to send with you my deep personal thanks for the real contribution which you have made to the success of American arms in World War II.

The faithful devotion and sacrifice which you, and men like you, have given to our nation in danger, are cause of great pride and confidence on the part of the Army, of the Army Ground Forces and of your countrymen.

You will remember with a sharpened wisdom the friendships and accomplishments which were yours in the greatest Army in the world. It is certain that the Nation can look confidently to her ex-soldiers in the future grave responsibilities of our people.

Sincerely

JACOB L. DEVERS
